

Town Hall Reuse Becomes Focus Of Renovation Plans

By Sue Aucella Deacon

With renovations at East Junior High underway and plans for a Memorial Hall Library addition coming along, it is time for Andover's Reuse Committee to turn its attention to Town Hall, the town manager said last week.

There are many possibilities for the 120-year-old town house, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the committee last Tuesday — but whatever plans town officials make must take into consideration town sentiment toward the building, he indicated.

"Town Hall means more to Andover than just a building on Main Street," committee member Sherron Heller, liaison to the Historical Commission, commented, explaining the commission's feelings about Town Hall.

And Committee Chairman Lawrence Spiegel agreed that "money is not the (chief) consideration" in the future of Town Hall: "There are a lot of very strong feelings about Town Hall," he noted.

Town Hall will be left empty some time this year, when all town offices (along with all school offices) move into two renovated wings of the former East Junior High School. Mahony said the town could consider selling the building, but that is just one possibility.

Another is to renovate the building for continued town use. The Historical Commission has recommended that any renovations be "compatible" with the building's original use, Heller said, which could include a post office sub-station.

According to Mahony, Town Hall originally included a post office, general town offices such as the tax collector's office, selectmen's office, a storeroom and a barbershop on the first floor. The second floor housed a town meeting room and a "gathering hall."

The manager said the building could be renovated to include a small meeting room and a small voter registration area on the first floor.

More dramatic renovations could include finishing the third floor and adding a large bell tower, which is prominently featured in original plans for the building drawn in 1863. Mahony made that discovery after a recent trip to Texas, where he recovered written specifications and architects' drawings for the town house.

The manager speculated that plans for the bell tower were abandoned when the Civil War broke out, bringing with it economic hardships. He said the bell that now sits in front of the fire station may have been cast for that tower, and could be used if a tower is constructed.

(Reuse committee members did not discuss that possibility last week, except to note that the bell tower as designed seemed too large for the building and appeared to overwhelm it in the drawings.)

In other discussion before the committee last week, Mahony said that architects are now completing final design plans for the East Junior High wings, and the contractor is working inside the building. The building will be sold to and then leased from Channel Building, but it still belongs to the town at this point, he said.

Architects are putting the finishing touches on preliminary plans for the library addition, with some modifications in the works, such as more windows in the back, overlooking the Shawsheen River. A number of developers have already expressed interest in the project, the manager said.

And plans for a new town parking lot at the Purity Supreme site will bring a total of 334 spaces to the Town Hall/Purity area, Mahony said. Town officials are waiting for state approval of their plans, he added, because state grants will help fund the project.

Pedestrian Fatally Injured

The president of the Haverhill Christian Scientist Church, an Atkinson, N.H. resident, died Wednesday of injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile while crossing North Main Street after leaving the First Church of Christ Scientist Tuesday night.

Stuart Hale, 78, was killed and two companions who were crossing the street with him were injured and remain in serious condition at Lawrence General Hospital. Hale was leaving a special service held at the Andover church with Bettina Campaigne, 71, of Haverhill and Phillip Hamilton, 86, of Atkinson.

Police said the three were crossing the street in front of the church at 9 p.m. to reach their car, parked on the northbound side of North Main Street. They were part way across the street waiting for traffic to clear when they were struck by a car driven by Stephen Flieder, 23, of 23 Wildwood Road, police said.

Flieder was driving within the speed limit and within the proper lane, according to police, and no charges are expected to be filed against the driver. Police said rain may have contributed to the accident on the poorly-lit street.

Sgt. Arthur Ricci and Patrolman William Atwood of the Andover police reported to the scene. Ambulances were called from Andover, North Andover and Tewksbury.

A retired engineer, Hale worked for more than 40 years at Bell Laboratories in North Andover. He was active in community affairs and a member of the Atkinson Conservation Commission.

Campaigne is listed in stable condition at Lawrence General with multiple fractures. Hamilton is in critical condition with multiple fractures.

To Conduct Screening Sessions

Parents who would their three- and four-year-old children's hearing assessed should contact Cynthia Verda at the Early Childhood Office, Andover Public Schools, for an appointment. Screening will take place June 6-10.

Early childhood developmental screening is a brief assessment procedure designed to identify children who may need further evaluation and educational intervention. Screening serves as the first step in an evaluation and intervention process that is intended to assist children in achieving their maximum potential. A developmental screening instrument surveys a child's abilities in areas such as language functioning, reasoning, gross motor, fine motor/adaptive and personal-social development. The intent of early childhood screening is to determine quickly and efficiently whether there is a high risk that a child might not succeed in school unless (s)he receives special educational or medical services.

Screening is only the initial phase of an educational assessment. For children who are suspected of having learning problems, it is followed by evaluation and subsequently by specific intervention or remediation.

Elm Square Completion Is Due

Completion of Elm Square reconstruction is expected to be within the next week.

Remaining to be done is the repaving of the square which has been held up due to the continued rainy weather. The contractor has indicated that the work will be scheduled as soon as there is a break in the weather.

When the work is completed it is expected that police will be in the area enforcing the new regulations such as no right turn from Central Street to Main and the increased frequency of prohibited U-Turns on Main Street by those attempting to avoid the no right-turn provision.

Still a problem, particularly for out-of-town motorists, is facing a red light when turning up Main Street from Elm. The confusion of coming off a green light and facing a red has caused some traffic jams in the newly-designed square.

Renovations On Fields Progressing

Renovations at the secondary school playing fields have been progressing "very, very well," Athletic Program Advisor Richard Swift told the School Committee last week, pronouncing himself "very pleased" with the results.

The Doherty Junior High fields are finished and back in use this spring, Swift said, with only "minor problems" left to be worked out. Those fields have been expanded to include a new track and new girls' softball field.

West Junior High now has new softball and baseball fields; some areas have been sodded and are in use this spring. Renovations there include an underground watering system to improve maintenance.

And at Andover High, newly-seeded fields will be out of use until the fall of 1984, Swift said. High school football will be played on the new West Junior High fields next fall.

The fields have been improved and expanded as part of the $13.72 million school building project.

Graduation Exercises Monday

Andover High School's Class of 1983 will celebrate their commencement at 5 p.m. Monday at the Eugene V. Lovely Field, with a rain date of Tuesday.

Boston radio personality Norm Nathan will be this year's commencement speaker.

All seniors are to report to Dunn Gymnasium at 9:30 a.m. Monday rain or shine for practice, and caps and gowns will be distributed at that time. Seniors should report to the baseball field at 4 p.m. to prepare for the procession.

Health Director Issues Warning On Mosquitoes

Unprecedented rainfall and pervasive wetlands and surface water storage areas in Andover have precipitated a warning from state and local health officials that mosquito populations and the incidence of mosquito-borne illnesses are expected to increase dramatically this year. "The Spring rains and the wet winter may be the cause, but there is no doubt it's going to be a bad year for mosquitoes," said Everett Penny, Andover Director of Public Health.

The appearance in Massachusetts in September 1982 of two human cases of Eastern Equine Encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain that can be fatal to both horses and humans, emphasizes the necessity of protecting both horses and humans. There is no licensed vaccine for humans, but protection in horses is provided by a veterinary vaccine. "Early vaccination of equids is urged to minimize loss of these valuable animals," said Penny.

The best protection method available to humans is prevention of unnecessary exposure to mosquitoes. Only certain species transmit the disease. "As soon as we have a sustained period of warm weather, four or five days, people will notice mosquitoes out biting," Penny said. "Now is the time to eliminate stagnant water impoundments such as old tires sitting around with water in them. Once the mosquitoes appear, protective clothing, repellants and good common sense practices which minimize the risk of biting are the most effective controls," he said. "Since the species carrying encephalitis usually bites at dusk and in the evening children should be kept inside or protected during these periods," Penny said.

Severe infections are usually marked by acute onset, headache, high fever, stupor, tremors and occasionally, convulsions. Questions regarding these or any disease symptoms should be brought to the attention of your private physician.

Large scale control efforts, such as spraying and regional drainage programs, are under study by state and regional officials. The effectiveness of these programs has been minimal in the past as mosquitoes simply migrate to uncontrolled areas. The latest information from the State Department of Public Health is that spraying will be used as a last resort when the environmental risks are outweighed.

Flag Day Services At Elks

In 1908 the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks adopted a ritual for the observance of Flag Day at a Grand Lodge convention in Dallas, TX. In 1911, at a Grand Lodge session in Atlantic City, a resolution was passed, making it mandatory for all subordinate lodges to observe Flag Day with appropriate ceremonies. June 14, having been designated as Flag Day, made the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks the first fraternal organization to require by positive mandate that all subordinate lodges should observe this day.

Usually the lodges hold services on the nearest Sunday to June 14, but as the officers and members of the Andover Lodge will be attending a state convention that weekend, they will comply with the Grand Lodge mandate by holding ceremonies on Sunday, June 5, at the Lodge, 400 South Main St., at 7 p.m.

The services will be conducted by the Lodge officers, assisted by local boy and girl scouts. Col. Edward M. Harris, a former Andover selectman, will be the speaker. The public is invited. Refreshments will be served after the ceremony.

Skywriting usually lasts for five to seven minutes.

Andover Has A Mystery Hill

By Virginia Lopez Begg

Was Andover visited by Irish monks in the tenth century? Few people know that Andover has its own version of Salem's Mystery Hill - a strange formation of large boulders near Haggett's Pond which some claim to have been constructed by Europeans hundreds of years before Columbus.

The Andover Historical Society will present this and other fascinating, but little-known facts about Andover at a morning coffee Tuesday, June 7, at 9:30 a.m. The public is invited.

Offered by Ruth Sharpe, Reta Buchan and Bernice Haggerty, the program promises to keep the audience exclaiming, "I didn't know that!" An unexplained deposit of spear points near Foster's Pond and at Pomp's Pond, an odd stone formation laid on pure white sand and surrounded by Indian artifacts lie hidden in Andover woods. They testify to rituals long past.

As present-day citizens do their grocery shopping and watch soccer games, how many are aware that there were more arrests for witchcraft in Andover during the Salem witch trials in 1692 than in Salem itself? Witchcraft in Andover will also be discussed during the lecture.

As the yellow school buses rumble past South School, nearby lies the site of Black Lucy's home and garden in the early 1800s. An interesting archeological dig some decades ago, the area has yielded material shedding light on a vanished way of life.

Do you know what a hoky-poky cart is? Or why, in the 1890s, town meeting twice refused to allow oxen in town? Come to the Andover Historical Society and find out.

The Andover Historical Society is a non-profit educational institution open to members and public. For information on open hours, exhibitions, tours, special events and membership, call the society office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Hospital Discussions Suspended

Bon Secours and Lawrence General hospitals, in a joint statement, announced that discussions conducted since December by the joint discussion committee on collaborative efforts between the two hospitals have been temporarily suspended.

According to Judge John E. Fenton, Jr., co-chairman of the committee and president of Bon Secours Hospital, the structure of the committee will remain in place to serve as a forum at a time when discussions resume. He said, "The hiatus will provide an opportunity for each hospital to review the progress and the extensive information collected by the committee."

He added that each hospital will utilize this period to examine the future direction of collaborative efforts.

Named To Committee

Bon Secours Hospital Occupational Health Coordinator Karen Blake, R.N., M.S., of Andover was recently appointed to serve on the American Association of Occupational Health Nurses' Inc. (AAOHN) Education subcommittee on grants, a national professional organization for occupational health nurses.

As a member of the newly-formed education subcommittee, Blake will be involved in researching and reviewing various grant proposals designed to promote standards for quality education in occupational health nursing.

An AAOHN member for two years, she recently attended its annual business conference in Washington, D.C., where she participated in a week-long program featuring state-of-the-art developments in the field.

On Committee

Betty Wasserboehr
and Cory Staid, Andover

artists, are member of the 1983 planning committee for the 23rd annual North Suburban Art Exhibit conducted by American Mutual Insurance Companies, Wakefield.

"Save The Elm Tree" Sponsored By Garden Club

The Andover Garden Club is offering again to the town's tree department and any resident the use of an elm tree injector tank. This service is free.

Preventive treatment is the key to survival of the elm tree. Tests show 98 percent survival when healthy trees are injected with elm fungicide every year. Survival rate of diseased trees in most cases averages about 35 percent. The Elm Research Institute in Harrisville, N.H., is responsible for distribution of their product, Elm Fungicide, according to EPA regulations. One gallon costs $13. Most trees will require at least one gallon. If a tree's circumference, measured at chest height, is greater than eight feet, the tree will require more than one gallon.

Other key methods to prevent elm disease are: 1. Pruning of deadwood during the dormant season only. Remove dead elms before April 1. 2. Spray the trees with a dormant spray, as well as a foliar spray. The foliar spray should take place twice, during partial leafout and at full leafout. 3. Feeding is recommended once every three years.

For further information regarding the use of the tree injector, contact Mrs. Tina Girdwood, chairman Action Committee for the Environment, Andover Garden Club.

Hospice Volunteers Ready For Service

An unusual graduation took place May 23 for the 13 persons who completed the volunteer training course for the Hospice of Greater Lawrence. They received certificates indicating that they had completed the ten-week course from Robert H. Klie, president of the hospice. In return, they each made a commitment to be available to serve terminally ill persons and their families for a year.

The new volunteers include Anne Bassage and Irene Chaisson of North Andover; Estelle Billings, Sally Hudgins, Alice McGann and Dorothy Miller of Andover; Linda Bibeau and Ronald Ford of Methuen; Daniel Cardillo and Daniel Retelle of Lawrence; Carleen Colburn of Windham, N.H., and Nancy Rosenstock and Judy Silva of Salem, N.H.

In the first ten months of direct service, hospice volunteers gave 912 hours and drove 6,639 miles to provide hospice care.

Sue Rood of Georgetown told the "about-to-be graduates" about her experience as a volunteer. She was warmly welcomed into the home of a terminal cancer patient. She offered companionship during the last two months of her life, supported the daughters who were her care-givers and helped them with some practical concerns such as insurance, preparing appealing foods, communicating with physicians and make funeral arrangements. Rood received a letter of appreciation saying, "you made her final journey a much lighter and more manageable one." She will continue to support the family for a year in bereavement.

The 1983 series of organ recitals at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall continues Wednesday, June 8, at 8:30 p.m. with Earl L. Miller as the performing artist.

"Lawrence Eagle-Tribune" and a contributor to many music journals. Miller has specialized in the collecting and performance of organ music from the Victorian period and has chosen works by composers contemporary with the original Walcker instrument as it existed in the Boston Music Hall before it was brought to Methuen.

Miller has selected Triumphal March, Op. 26, Dudley Buck; Theme with Variations, William Faulkes; Gavotte Humoresque, Karl Figue; Slow Voluntary, Op. 30, No. 2, Edward Townsend Driffield; Festival Fantasia in c minor, H. Julius Tschirch; March in E-flat, Louis James Alfred Lefebure-Wely; Third Grand Organ Sonata in F Major, Opus 18, Otto Dienel.

To Present Organ Recital

The Hook and Hastings pipe organ at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Haverhill Street, Lawrence, will be heard in recital Sunday, June 5, at 6:30 p.m. Earl L. Miller, music director of Christ Church, Andover, and chapel music director at the Brooks School, will be the featured artist, assisted by Brooks School student David Hyun, clarinetist.

Miller has chosen a principally 19th century program, featuring composers who were alive when the instrument was built. Several less familiar works will be performed, including a "Storm Piece" by the American composer I.V. Flagler and a "Fanfare" featuring the trumpets of the organ by the 19th century British composer Olphihant Chuckerbutty.

His Caring Led To Being Honored As Teacher Of Year

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Andover High School choral instructor Keith Gould, who is also director of music for South Church, has touched the life of a former Andover ABC student in a way that student says he will never forget.

"To this day, I remember the words of Mr. Keith Gould as being an inspirator in my life as well as just being a close friend," student Gerald James wrote in a moving tribute to his former music teacher. "In my heart I will repay him every day with respect and admiration."

Gerald James, now a senior at Tufts, wrote that letter to nominate Gould as Tufts University's secondary school teacher of the year in arts and humanities — and Gould was in fact named one of two teachers of the year. Gould and his fellow award-winner, a Randolph drama teacher, were honored at a Tufts banquet on May 16.

Gould read the letter for the first time on the night of the banquet and "really choked up over it," he recalls. "It's really kind of special."

"And for the teaching community, it shows that none of us knows about the impact that we might have on a youngster. Usually it's something that happens down the road that makes you realize it."

Gould, soft-spoken and low-key, has been teaching music at Andover High and serving as the South Church music director for more than 24 years. He earned a bachelor's degree in education from Arizona State and a master's degree in music from Boston University, but his ambitions were formed many years earlier, Gould explains.

Music was his "first love. I remember, as a little kid taking piano lessons, thinking, 'I know what I'm gonna be.' I had it all blocked out — I wanted to teach music and be a church organist. I learned piano so I could play the organ." He was much influenced by his father, who was a minister and "a very musical person."

He followed his childhood plan, and it led to what is now an almost endless whirl of after-school activities and church events: He leads the AHS madrigal chorus, hand bell chorus, chorale for mixed voices and a cappella choir; directs school musical productions; and co-teaches courses in musical theatre (with Bob King) and songwriting (with Diana Kolben). He also offers private piano lessons every afternoon.

Many of his groups are in such great demand to perform at community and business functions that he must turn down more requests than he can accept for them. "Certain seasons are very busy — at Christmas-time we go crazy!" he says, laughing.

"I'm pretty busy with the extra things my job requires," he admits. "I'd like to have more family time. However, I find the work to be very rewarding. It's been very rewarding — teaching, having a relationship with young people."

One of those young people, Gerald James, came to Andover High from New York City's inner city as part of the ABC (A Better Chance) program in 1976. ABC is designed to give urban students an opportunity for a good high school education in a new environment.

Gerald was "a terrific kid to work with," Gould remembers. "He had a lot of talent and seemed to fit right in. The first time I met him was when he auditioned for me. It never occurred to me at the time how frightening it was for him to be put in that situation, coming from an all-black community."

But even without realizing it, Gould put Gerald at ease, and during the next three years helped him grow in many ways — more than just musically. In his letter of nomination, the student credits his teacher with exposing him to many kinds of music, but also giving him self-confidence, encouraging him to audition for a district choir and helping him handle rejection as well as success, urging him to continue singing in college.

He also gave Gerald reason to trust a white person for the first time in his life. Gerald's letter describes how Gould bought him a jacket and tie he could not afford, but needed to wear in the choir.

"He said he knew I would take care of it and make him proud wearing it," the student wrote. "This was the first time a white person had expressed enough trust in me and was able to express it verbally. Mr. Gould certainly dispelled any of the misconceptions I had had of white people."

The teacher was truly surprised by the Tufts honor, he says. "I had no idea I was impacting that kid at all — it really came as a shocker when I read his letter. I did try to keep aware of any financial problems, and I'd do what I could. But I didn't see anything special about it at the time."

"I think I've had a special place with the ABC kids I've worked with," he adds. "I've tried to be aware of their special needs." He believes the ABC program is "excellent. Look at Gerry — he's a senior at Tufts, going off to law school next year. Where would he be today if he hadn't been pulled out of his surroundings?"

Gerald went on to become involved in a variety of musical groups at Tufts, where he majored in Spanish, sociology, and political science, with an interest in international politics and European culture. He also learned choreography, and will return to Andover to choreograph numbers for Gould's high school show choir next year.

"He seems to have his feet well on the ground," Gould says of his former student. "He's doing very well, and it looks like he'll have a very bright future."

Over the years he has "enjoyed so many good kids, and the rewards that have come from working with these kids," the teacher says. "I feel so fortunate to be here in Andover. The youngsters here have so many fine talents — it's somewhat unique."

He is reluctant to reveal his favorite groups ("I suppose I shouldn't say this"), but they are two that he founded: the madrigal singers, which he started 20 years ago, and the hand bell choir, which he started about five years ago.

Keith Gould

The madrigal singers, composed of about 25 of the high school's best singers, have performed and won awards at national high school music festivals. Their repertoire includes music from the Middle Ages and Renaissance, "quite often love songs of the day," and they sing without accompaniment. They are now branching out into show music, performing with the stage band, and next year will add dancing — choreographed by Gerald James.

The hand bell choir, which recently performed at the Kennedy Memorial Library in Boston, plays pieces written specially for bell choirs, including patriotic music and Christmas carols. Gould first heard a bell choir when a New York group performed at South Church, and it was "just a stunning thing," he says. He quickly got a set of bells for the church, then borrowed them for a year at school "to show the schools what we could do."

Showing students what they can do in music programs has been the toughest part of his job, Gould says (besides "moving equipment," he says with a laugh). "There's a lot of selling to the job, and I had never realized that it was going to be that way. We're really selling the programs, to let the kids know we exist." This year, that effort included bring a promotional video tape to the junior high schools to help encourage ninth-graders to sign up for high school music programs.

The new high school auditorium, to be in use next fall, will provide a place for students to perform before their peers for the first time, Gould says. "It's going to affect our program dramatically, with a new choral and band room in addition to the auditorium — and now we've got to produce. It's a challenge and it's a joy."

His years at Andover High have created "so many memories," he says: a concert on the front steps of the former East Junior High that turned into a "mad scramble" when rain began to pour down on the singers; musicals that succeeded ("Guys And Dolls") and musicals that didn't quite ("How To Succeed In Business..."); a scheduled trip to a Natick competition that fizzled when the buses failed to appear ("I said, Okay, out to the buses — and there were no buses.").

"There are certain classes that stand out," he adds. "We have a very powerful junior and sophomore class right now that will leave a big hole when they leave. Last year's senior class was quite strong, and the one before."

He looks back fondly on the work he has done with J. Everett Collins, for whom the new AHS auditorium will be named. "It's been a real joy to work with him for the last 20 years."

The teacher's family has always been important to him, he says. He lives on Strawberry Hill Road with his wife, Lois, and daughters Laurie, 24, and Kimberley, 10; daughter Karen Smith, 26, of Nashua, N.H. made him a grandfather for the first time over the Memorial Day weekend.

Gould is "very touched by the fact that Gerry thought enough of me" to nominate him as a teacher of the year. And he credits his influence on the young student in large measure to the influence his work at the South Church has had on him.

"That association has been a major influence in my development as a person," he explains. It has been a place to play and direct his favorite music (baroque and Renaissance), and a place that "keeps me in touch with some of the real values in life. That has helped me to reach out a little more than I might have to a kid."

"My church work has brought me back to the basics," Keith Gould says. "It helps me touch base with the inner core."

The Andover Baptist congregation has arranged for Dr. Reginald MacDonald, pastor, to talk on the phone with Rev. Wesley Brown, director of special studies at the Ecumenical Institute for Advanced Theological Studies in Jerusalem during the Service for One Great Hour of Sharing on Sunday, June 5.

Rev. Brown and his wife, Cheryl, give assistance and guidance to the Christian professors and leaders who come there for a semester or a year of research and spiritual renewal.

Special Service At No. Parish

The North Parish of North Andover will hold a special worship service Sunday, June 5, at 10:30 a.m.

Eric Carle, distinguished author and illustrator of children's books, will talk about his experiences as an artist and illustrator and share some of his stories. He will illustrate his talk by recreating some of his favorite animal characters.

Carle was born of German parents in 1929 in Syracuse, N.Y. He attended kindergarten and first grade in Syracuse where he recalls enjoying large sheets of paper, big brushes and colorful paints. In 1935 his parents returned to Germany where Carle had to learn German and attend grammar school. Here he recalls disliking school in general, as it was strict with corporal punishment. He hated the small pieces of paper he received with only a hard, sharp pencil for drawing.

This special worship service will be of particular interest to young people, but adults will find Carle a warm and charming person. Carle will be glad to autograph any of his books the children bring. Among his most popular books are "Do You Want To Be My Friend?" "The Honeybee and the Robber," "Let's Paint A Rainbow" and "The Grouchy Ladybug."

Decision On Modifying Cluster Plan Due By Next Week

By Sue Aucella Deacon

A Planning Board public hearing on the Olympic Village subdivision off Woburn and River streets, held last week, has been continued to June 14 while the board awaits possible modifications to the plan from the developer.

The developer's attorney said yesterday that the developer will decide by next week whether to submit a modified plan to the board for the 77-lot cluster development.

The town has issued a stop work order for portions of the subdivision where, town officials say, developer Arthur Kalogianis of T.D.J. Development Corp. is in violation of the subdivision approval the planners granted him in December 1980.

About 20 townspeople attended a public hearing last Tuesday night at Memorial Hall Library, according to Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore.

The director said town officials charged Kalogianis with three violations of his subdivision approval: removing 2,500 to 3,000 yards of earth material from two lots fronting on River Street, when the gravel removal bylaw allows no more than 50 yards to be removed; grading beyond what was approved by the planners in 1980; and removing material from the site without the board's approval of the grading of all roads and easements, which was a condition of the 1980 approval.

The director said about 10 to 15 lots, or seven and one-half to ten acres, are included in the disputed area.

According to Gilmore, neighbors at the hearing were concerned about safety at the subdivision site, where steep hills of sand and fill rise above the backyards of Woburn Street residents, and about the developer's "disregard for town procedures."

Atty. Reginald Marden of Andover, representing Kalogianis, said yesterday the developer "went below the grade as shown on the (1980) plans" on one lot and a portion of two other lots because he "encountered some ledge" while grading those lots.

"One lot had a knoll on it and apparently that knoll was removed," the attorney explained. "It seemed to my client that it was a better lot with the knoll removed."

Marden added that the area in dispute is "a fairly insignificant portion of the subdivision when you look at the overall project. It's a very small area, and all roadways and utilities are being constructed to the correct grade, as shown on the plan."

"In the overall scope of things, 2,500 yards is not a great deal of material," Marden said.

Kalogianis has not yet decided whether to present a proposal for a modified plan to the planning board, the attorney indicated, but will decide by next Tuesday.

Gilmore noted that the changes made to those lots where Kalogianis found ledge probably would create "better lots." He said that if the developer submits modifications showing those changes, the board "would be inclined to approve" the modifications.

But the board has "no choice" but to enforce compliance with the original plan unless an alternative is presented, he added. "What we are saying now is that he must come in with a proposed modification, or stick to the 1980 plan," the director said.

A concern shared by abutters and town officials that emerged at the hearing: "We don't want this to drag on and on," Gilmore said. "These people are looking at a sand pile in the back of their houses."

Human Relations Policy Adopted

In an effort to encourage "healthy human relations" within the school system, the School Committee last week voted unanimously to adopt a new human relations policy covering both academic and personal issues.

Chairman Richard Neal, who drafted the policy statement, said it was intended to "make all aware of our concern for healthy human relations." Michael Giammusso said the policy was "a very positive step. It's important to formalize it to send a message to the community."

The policy asserts that "healthy human relations are part of the educational responsibility of all school staff," and proposes "a programmatic approach dealing with racial, ethnic and religious sensitivity" in all grades in all schools.

Curriculum should "be inclusive of the minority experience, rather than treated as a separate entity," the policy states.

It also calls for a "vehicle" in every school that would allow members of a minority community to "communicate their concerns."

And the policy calls for an annual review by the superintendent each August, followed by "a comprehensive report" to the school committee, on how the policy is being implemented in the schools. The report is also to include any problems encountered during the school year and the steps taken to correct those problems.

The committee voted unanimously to accept the policy on a first pass after brief discussion.

Committee members discussed another new policy last week, but no action was taken on the proposed "committee/staff communications and relations" policy.

That policy was intended to set guidelines for informal discussions between teachers and committee members. Giammusso said, and to emphasize that individual committee members have no authority other than when they are convened in a legal meeting, or "vested with special authority by committee action."

Mill Rehabilitation To Begin

The rehabilitation of Andover's historic 1836 Marland Mill will soon be underway. Closing on the premises, conveyed to the Marland Mill Limited Partnership by Dundee Properties of Andover, took place at the Andover Savings Bank on Wednesday, June 1. Present were Robert Henderson, president of the bank, Augustine P. Sheehy, seller, and Frederick W. Lyman and Nicholas B. Deane of the Deane/Lyman Partnership, developers of the property.

"Utilizing to the greatest extent possible the uniquely beautiful natural and man-made features of the site is the primary goal for Deane/Lyman. The tranquil tree-lined millpond setting, combined with the granite dam and falls of the upper Shawsheen River is a powerful year-round amenity," according to Lyman. "We are especially happy that the mill and surrounding early 19th century village of Ballardvale have been placed on the National Register of Historic Places. This will encourage a careful approach to property ownership in the area which is under intense development pressure because of its strategic location near two I-93 exits," he added.

Rehabilitation of the 1836 structure, said to be the oldest of its type in the Merrimack Valley, will both respect its historic significance and incorporate some new design concepts intended to appeal to commercial tenants. A double-access elevator will permit periodic views through the entire width of the building. "Carefully redesigned staircases and high-quality finish work will enhance the awareness that Andover's Marland Mill offers something superior in character to contemporary construction," added Lyman. "The Ballardvale area was fortunately spared the intense development of the several nearby industrial parks in southern Andover and Wilmington, and to this day remains a living museum of the town's 19th Century textile heritage. Our goal is to use the historic village setting as our primary marketing focus."

"We feel that Andover is a special place," added Deane, the other Deane/Lyman principal. "Its tax rate is comparatively low and its association with higher education and historic preservation are well-known. Add a strategic location and high quality-of-life index of Andover and you have an unbeatable combination."

The 35,000 square foot Marland Mill, with parking for 85 cars expandable to 150, will be available for lease by September 1983. The Deane/Lyman Partnership is developing flexible plans to suit five single floor (6,500 s.f.) tenants, or larger corporations desiring more than one level.

Principals

Principals in the transfer of the Marland Mill Ballardvale property this week were, from left, Nicholas B. Deane, Augustine P. Sheehy, who sold the building, Robert M. Henderson, president, Andover Savings Bank and Frederick W. Lyman, who with Deane forms the Deane/Lyman Partnership, new owners.

Memorial Day Services In Andover

Rain played throughout this year's Memorial Day parade and services, but it had little effect on townspeople as a large crowd witnessed and participated. The tribute included a four division parade and services at Andover cemeteries. Photos clockwise from top center: Crowds take cover under downtown building awnings as the Andover High School Band marches down Main Street; The Andover Police Color Guard lead the parade; Fred H. Harrison, History professor at Phillips Academy, was the speaker at the services at Memorial Auditorium; Service men listen to the benediction by Rev. Reginald MacDonald, pastor, Andover Baptist Church; Three cub scouts take cover under one umbrella as they listen to Memorial Day services.

A Fitting Tribute

Memorial Day exercises in Andover were, in view of weather conditions, a fitting tribute to those who have sacrificed in the defense of the freedoms we so cherish.

But, making this year's traditional exercises even more appropriate, was the initial presentation of 'The Street Of Memorial Flags,' accomplished through the donation of flags presented to deceased veterans.

The idea was conceived by Director of Veterans Services John Lewis only a few weeks ago. With members of the patriotic holiday committee, Lewis thought that rather than have the memorial American Flags placed in a drawer or some inconspicuous place in the home, they could be displayed on such days as Memorial Day, Flag Day, Fourth of July and Veterans Day.

It was an effort to infuse patriotic spirit in the community.

The response, of course, was overwhelming.

Within a short period of time flags were being brought to town hall and the three fire stations. Names of the deceased veteran and the donors were recorded.

Students and faculty at Greater Lawrence Technical School fabricated holders and municipal employees hoisted the flags over the weekend.

Sunday and Monday residents and visitors were greeted in the downtown area by the presence of American Flags throughout the area.

It was an impressive sight, made more meaningful through knowledge of the source of the flags.

Satiating Quest For A Certain Cheese

By Elaine Katz

The editor, having graciously granted me space this week, I am pleased to share with you news of what appears to be the best kept secret in the U.S. of A.

Mimolette, far from being the French exotic one might imagine, is, in fact, a delicious Dutch cheese which I first encountered when we lived in France where it was known as "Orange d'Holland" or orange cheese of Holland.

By now, some are asking, 'What's her angle,' knowing never to trust a real estate hog further than an eyelash length. But, my angle is that by telling my town about a newly-arrived favorite, I can in some small measure repay your kindness and support my family received during the five long and extremely difficult years since my stroke. The people of Andover can never guess how much the outpouring of care and affection has meant to all of us. To this day, my mother almost cries whenever Andover is mentioned, saying, 'you can go anywhere in the world and you'll never find another town like that.'

But, to return to Mimolette--it is a delicious, dry and nutty cheese, which tastes great and keeps well. It will never melt, even if taken to the beach in summer. It will always be there ready to travel, no matter where the road may lead.

For a year or more I have made shopping expeditions to Butler's Pantry with the request, 'I'll have a nice piece of Mimolette, please,' knowing the reply would be that they just can't get it. But a week ago, as I was walking down Main Street, I was hailed by Marty Scully's "Elaine, we have your cheese in the store." I therefore, dropped everything and proceeded to Barnard Street where I bought a much larger piece than I needed so I could pass some out to the other customers. This, of course, was an ulterior motive, in that if enough people acquired a taste, demand would insure its continued availability.

Andover could then become known as that place in the country where trash ladies care for the environment and eat orange cheese.

Concern For Fields

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

After witnessing two recent youth soccer games—one under 16 boys and the other under 14 girls—I'm writing to voice my concern about playing soccer in semi-torrential downpour on "mudbowl" fields. As I understand it, the coach has the responsibility to call the game in the case of inclement weather. However, many seem reluctant to do so knowing that schedules may not be able to be revised to make up postponed games.

As a parent, and I must add, firm supporter of the soccer program in Andover, I must ask what is being accomplished by this? Valuable playing fields are being ripped to shreds by cleats as players slip and slide into goals that look like mini-swimming pools. Players are being exposed to high-risk situations where normal soccer skills may do little to

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — June 1908

William H. Higgins, the well known livery stable keeper is contemplating turning one of his barns into a garage for the convenience of automobiles. He plans to have the building fitted up in first class shape with a cement floor and every facility for repairing and storing machines.

The Exeter game calls attention to the fact that there is not quite so much excitement over town baseball as in some years past. The small boy teams are more or less numerous, but a team of older youths is missing, for the Saturday afternoon diversion which so many of our citizens enjoy. It is not too late for such a nine to be gotten together and many citizens would help to support it.

There is a possibility of a big Country Club in North Andover which would doubtless interest a great many Andover people. Present plans, which are as yet in embryo, contemplate the purchase of a large piece of desirable property with dwelling and barn, conveniently located. The house would, of course, have to be remodeled, and the grounds laid out with golf links and tennis courts.

50 Years Ago — June 1933

Two hundred workers, formerly the unemployed of such communities as Worcester, Chicopee, Springfield, Salem and Lynn, moved into town Tuesday morning as part of the mammoth Civilian Conservation Corps in what is undoubtedly one of the most interesting governmental employment moves ever made. This group, the 110th company, will work in the Harold Parker State Forest, which is located off the by-pass.

Dr. Claude Moore Fuess, acting headmaster at Phillips Academy since March 19 after the death on March 12 of Dr. Charles H. Forbes, has been named headmaster. It was announced Monday by Judge Elias B. Bishop of Newton Centre, president of the board of trustees. Dr. Fuess has been a member of the academy's faculty since 1908 and has always been prominent in the affairs of Andover. Nationally he is well known as a biographer.

Disagreeably rainy weather failed to stop throngs of Andover people from gathering Sunday and Memorial Day to honor the town's dead heroes — men who went through more than disagreeable weather to help save their country and others. For the first time Andover was without a surviving veteran of the Civil War, Commander Henry Clukey being the last to pass away last fall.

The town has refused to concur with a state suggestion that it approve acceptance of Shawsheen road "as is." The verbal suggestion was made to the Board of Public Works by state officials, who intimated that additional construction required on private property along the street, reconstructed under Chapter 90, might be done more cheaply if it can be let out on bids.

All town offices serving the public will begin their summer schedule next week. The offices will be closed alternate Mondays, starting June 9. The selectmen will follow the same meeting schedule. The Board of Public Works itself will meet weekly but its water department office will close alternate Monday nights, conforming to the schedule for other offices.

Semi-swamp, brush and wooded area is rapidly taking the form of a 900 vehicle parking lot, as earth-moving equipment pushes construction of Raytheon's sixth parking lot. Local plant officials stated the completion of this lot will make available nearly 2200 off-street parking spaces and on the basis of today's employment, this should represent a surplus of over 300 spaces.

10 Years Ago — June 1973

Collection of refuse to be disposed of out of town will commence on or about July 1, with an Abington firm handling the bulk of the refuse, Donald G. Craig of Andover the special items and Nabydoski Brothers continuing residential garbage pickup. This is the decision reached this week as Town Manager J. Maynard Austin announced his intent to award the refuse pickup contract to South Shore Disposal Co. of Abington.

A mosquito control program will be initiated within the next ten days, according to a vote of the Selectmen meeting in a special session Monday night. The board, with only Selectman Alan T. French opposed, approved the implementation of a spraying program to provide relief, with property owners who request exemption from the insecticide treatment by-passed, "insofar as possible."

A smoking lounge fire at Abbot Academy early Wednesday morning left one room in Draper Hall, the academy's main dorm and administration building, a charred and blackened ruins, but no girls were injured. Andover Fire Chief Henry Hilton places the cause of the fire to "careless disposal of smoking materials."

prevent injuries as grass fields turn into slippery mud slides.

So, the season is shortened if we can't make up games? Somehow that makes more sense to me than making costly repairs to damaged fields and treating multitudes of strains and sprains and colds (hopefully, nothing more serious).

Please, take this weather situation seriously, coaches. Professional players may need to play in "mudbowl" to fulfill their contracts, but Andover's youth certainly doesn't.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

The amount of cabinet and counter space required are primary concerns when remodeling a kitchen. A minimum of 10 linear feet of base cabinets and a comparable amount of wall cabinets should be designed into most kitchen plans. If space and budget allow, more should be added. Allow a cabinet specialist to show you the new cabinet hinges and pull-out designs that add more usable room to each linear foot of space. Adequate counter space for food preparation and serving should be carefully planned. Be sure, for example, that the refrigerator door opens into the adjacent counter top. Allow adequate splashboard protection of at least 4 inches.

When you want to remodel your kitchen or bath ask yourself these questions: What do I need and want? What can I realistically include? How much can I afford? Here at WINDSOR KITCHENS we enjoy the challenge of coming up with solutions to the most difficult and complex design situations and questions. Call us at 372-3444 today or stop in and see us here at Rte. 125 in Ward Hill just 1/2 mile north of Western Electric. We're open Mon-Thurs 9-5:30, Fri 9-8, Sat 9-4, eves by appt. and we'll always take as much time as needed to serve you.

Warriors Capture Championship

The Andover High Boys Track Team climaxes its great undefeated season winning the State Class B championship at Reading High. The Golden Warriors scored 72 points in topping the 48-team field. Second-place Methuen finished with 46 points, 26 behind Andover. The Golden Warriors competed in nine dual meets and five major meets during the season, winning them all. Andover also won the Haverhill Invitational, the Andover Invitational, the State Class B Relays, the Merrimack Valley League Title and the Northern Area championships.

John McLellan had an outstanding day, winning the javelin with a throw of 187'7", his second best throw ever. The pole vault turned out to be the big point getter for the Golden Warriors with E.J. Perry placing first and Mike Lucey second, both with vaults of 12'. Peter Comeau took a second in the 300 low hurdles just being edged at the tape in the fast time of :38.3. Ian Dowe turned in a fine effort placing second in the 100 meters with a blazing time of :10.9 in the trials and a fourth in the shot with a toss of 52'10". Twins 6 - Indians 4

Steady pitching by Todd Musterrat, a good relief effort by Keith Abernathy, and some timely hitting by Doug Bruk, Chris Lane and Peter Radulski led the Twins to a 6-4 decision over the Indians on Saturday. Matt Pothier and John Glynn each had two hits for the Twins while John Pike had a nice running catch in the fourth to keep the game close. Kirk Brucato gets honors for his fine fielding for the Twins.

Pirates 7 - Braves 6

In a well-played, seven-inning game, the Pirates notched their first win at the expense of the Braves. The early innings had the Pirates leading 4-1, but the Braves came alive and went ahead 6-4 in the seventh. With two outs the Pirates used a few walks and an error to score the winning runs. Starter Glenn Driscoll and relievers Jeff Manning and Brendan McGrail were exceptional for the losers. Curt Solomon continued his season-long exceptional play for the Pirates. Tim Lane and Bily Batchelder had key Braves' hits.

Cubs 6 - Mets 5

The Cubs were coasting along 5-0 when the Mets exploded to tie the game in the bottom of the fifth. Thanks to some wildness by Cubs stopper John Russell and timely singles by Mike Troy and Stefan Tomlinson, Andy Shea's charges had the momentum after five innings. In the sixth Jim Hendry crashed a double to drive in Mollineaux with the leading run. The never-say-die Mets loaded the bases with one out, only to have the tilt terminated when the final two batters popped out. Pitchers Russell and Shea were both victims of several errors. Tim Hegarty, for the winners, and Troy, for the Mets had two safeties each.

Mets 21 - Braves 2

Tim Lane's Braves could do nothing right against water.

According to Figgie International's Rawlings Golf, a player can use up to 14 clubs, usually four woods, nine irons and a putter.

A very big camel can drink 60 or 70 quarts of water.

the combined pitching of Mike Troy and David Tucker. The Mets struck early and often and were sparked by Troy's grand slam homer in the second. Mark Angelos and Troy each collected three hits, while Chris Stout and Ricky Pass each scored twice. Defensively, David Tucker and Brendan McGrail earned stars. Eddie Chaison, with two hits, and Jeff Manning, with a double, led the Braves. Troy's win was his fourth of the season.

Cubs 4 - Pirates 3

The Pirates seemed on their way to victory in the second half, only to see the Cubs rally for three runs to steal the win. Super defensive play by the losers, specially Murphy, Solomon and the Orlando brothers, had the Cubs in trouble until the end. Cubs' stars were Albie Minichiello, Hendry, Russell and Sean Darwin.

Orioles 5 - Red Sox 4

The Orioles, trailing 4-1, rallied for four runs in the home half of the sixth to defeat the Red Sox 5-4.

Eric Hammond led off with a single, Hugh Maginnis followed with a single, moving Hammond to third. Hammond scored on a passed ball. Chip Stella delivered Maginnis with a base hit. an infield error as Knight scored the winning run.

The Red Sox scored one run in each of the first three innings. Andy Weiner rescued Danny Fay with a single; Bobby Stoltz singled home David Milne, who had doubled; and Jeremy Gibson, Kevin Foley and Weiner had consecutive hits, resulting in a run. The other runs came in the fifth when Chris Landers belted a long double, scoring a base-runner.

Prior to the six-inning outburst, the Orioles scored a single run, highlighted by base hits from David Carriere and Stalla.

Pitching was handled effectively by Carriere and Brett Hammond for the Orioles and Weiner and Gibson for the Red Sox.

Knight had three hits, Maginnis and Stella two each for the Birds, while Weiner had two for the Sox.

Indians 10 - Orioles 4

The Indians took the decision in a darkness-shortened game at West Elementary. The Orioles jumped off to the 3-1 lead after one, but the Indians came back while holding the Orioles to one further run.

Matt Pothier (3 runs, 1 RBI, 1 double), Jamie Spinelli (1 run, 2 RBI, 2 doubles), John Pike (1 run, 1 RBI, 1 double) and John Glynn (1 run) all had two hits for the Indians. Peter Donegan (1 RBI), Derek Camarota (2 runs, 1 RBI) and Brian Smith (1 run) each had single safeties.

Craig Knight led the Orioles with two hits and Eric Hammond singled.

The defensive star of the game was Knight who played excellent second base.

Sharing the pitching for the Orioles were Bret Hammond, Hugh Maginnis and David Carriere.

Mike Lebreck and Glynn shared mound duties and recorded ten strikeouts.

Indians 6 - Red Sox 5

The Indians used last-inning heroics by Jamie Spinelli to pull out a 6-5 victory over the Red Sox.

The Red Sox jumped to a first-inning, four-run lead when the first four batters scored. The Indians, however, settled down, allowing only one more run while scoring three in the fourth and sixth innings. Jamie Spinelli's solo home run broke a 5-5 tie in the last of the sixth.

Other Indian offensive contributors were Matt Pothier (2 hits, 2 RBIs, 2 runs), Mike Lebreck (1 double), Derek Camarota (1 double) and John Glynn (single).

Dan Fay (2 hits, 1 run), Kevin Foley (2 hits, 2 runs), Andy Weiner (single) and Paul Lembo (single) starred offensively for the Red Sox.

Fay, Red Sox catcher, and Peter Donegan, Indians' centerfielder, played well defensively.

David Milne and Tyler Vadeboncoeur pitched for the Sox. Pothier and Glynn combined for 11 strikeouts.

Summer Hazards

Relaxing on the beach, enjoying a long-awaited vacation, sailing on the open waters are all a part of summertime fun and relaxation. With warmer temperatures and longer days approaching, many people will enjoy their summer activities outdoors. But, on the dark side of outdoor activities lurk the summer spoilers—potential hazards that can ruin the fun by causing accidents, illness or even death.

SAAB HAS MORE CARGO SPACE THAN BMW, AUDI, AND VOLVO. COMBINED.

Flip down the back seat of a Saab and you get 56.5 cubic feet of cargo space (53 in a 4-door model).

Now compare that to the 16 cubic feet you get in an Audi 5000. The 13.9 you get in a Volvo GLT Turbo. Even the posh 22.5 you get in a BMW 733i (and see how much good posh does you when you're packing up the summer house).

Of course, you can't flip down the back seat of any of these cars. So they might say Saab has an unfair advantage. We couldn't agree more.

Summer Soccer Camp Scheduled

The Andover Soccer Camp announces its seventh consecutive season serving the youth of Northeastern Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire. Since its inception more than 2,000 players from the local area and from as far away as Hong Kong and Holland have gained in knowledge and skill from the camp. Serving boys and girls from 8-18, this year's program will offer four coed weeks: July 11-15, 18-22, 25-29 and Aug. 1-5.

Operated under the auspices of the Phillips Academy Summer Session and coordinated by P.A. athletic director Joseph B. Wennik, the camp is staffed by area coaches and advanced players. Co-directors Dave Amundsen, Andover High School, and Bill Tarbox, Greater Lawrence Technical School, have assembled several coaches to assist.

In addition to using P.A. soccer fields, campers eat a warm lunch in the dining hall, see films in the Audio-Visual Center, swim in the pool, seek sheltered practice on rainy days in the Cage and avail themselves of locker room and showers. A limited number of scholarships is available each summer on the basis of need.

Parents will be invited to a special program on Friday evenings. They will be treated to a Round Robin Tournament involving each team, to skills contests for all team members and to the awarding of prizes and certificates.

In order to fight inflated transportation costs, the camp has arranged, at a slight additional expense, a bus pick-up and drop-off for those areas which have demonstrated greatest interest.

For further information, contact the Athletic Director, Phillips Academy, Andover, MA 01810, Att: Andover Soccer Camp.

Gallery Upholstering and Interior Decorating

Is the fabric on your furniture worn out? Or maybe you just tired of the same old look? Don't throw out that old furniture! Call Bob Silveira at Gallery Upholstering and Interior Decorating at 689-0454 for a free estimate and no obligations appointment.

They'll give your furniture new life by reupholstering it in the latest fabrics that come in luscious, popular new colors such as jade green, forest green, salmon, peach and more. It may be just the thing to give your room new life.

And Gallery Upholstering can help you coordinate colors and fabrics to fit right into your present color scheme or they can help you create an entire new "look."

Gallery Upholstering specializes in antique restorations and they offer complete home decorating: quality reupholstering, fashion draperies and installation and custom made slip covers. And all work done by Gallery Upholstering is covered by a one year written guarantee.

Bob Silveira believes in the quality of older furniture stating that most new furniture lacks the structural quality that makes older pieces last and last.

Gallery Upholstering maintains that quality by hand cutting, hand stitching and hand matching patterns to produce a better quality piece than furniture which is manufactured by piece work on a machine.

Mr. Silveira started in the upholstery business at the age of 13, sweeping floors for New England Upholstering. After being educated in fabrics and fiber construction at Lowell Technical Institute and interior design at Pratt Institute of came an interior decorator and consultant for Gilchrist Department Store in Boston. Then he spend 12 years in association with Pride Upholstering before opening Gallery Upholstering.

Many of the finest homes, businesses and restaurants in the North Shore area have come to depend upon the courteous, professional service available from Gallery Upholstering's nine skilled craftsmen. Gallery Upholstering also does commercial and institutional decorating bids and specializes in fire estimates as well as evaluate any damage sustained in moving furniture.

Let Gallery Upholstering give you a free estimate and advice on all your home furnishings by calling 689-0454 for a no obligation appointment today.

FUTURE COOLING INSURANCE

You may pass up central air conditioning in a new house because you feel you can always add it later. This can be an expensive mistake because the price of adding central air conditioning to an existing house will run considerably more than in a new house due to breaking through walls, altering the heating system and so on. But waiting need not be an expensive mistake if you make a few low-cost provisions.

Tell the builder you want heating ducts which will accommodate central air conditioning too. Cooling requires bigger ducts. The furnace chosen should be one with a blower large enough for cooling and one designed to accept air conditioning. The electrical wiring board should have a spare 240 volt circuit to handle the air conditioner.

These stitch-in-time provisions should reduce the expense of installing central cooling later by ten times the amount.

'Highlands, Lowlands' Agree On Cuba St.

Cuba Street residents have lobbied to have their street made one-way for several years, but after the selectmen finally agreed to that request last month not everyone on the street was happy.

So last week, the board modified their one-way plans to try to please everyone on Cuba Street.

Originally, the selectmen had voted to make the steep street one-way from Shawsheen Road uphill to Red Spring Road. Last week, they agreed to begin the one-way restriction at the top of the hill, about half-way up the street.

Resident William Buehner, in a good-natured appeal to the board, explained that their vote had set off "contention between the highlanders and the lowlanders" — residents who live near the top and near the bottom of the hill, which Buehner called "slightly more precipitous than the Matterhorn."

The resident said that while the "lowlanders" were sympathetic to the "highlanders" who wanted to cut down traffic and speeding on the street, they would find it impossible to drive uphill on stormy winter days to get off the street. "On bad days we would be deprived of the use of our cars," Buehner said.

He proposed giving residents of the street a waiver to the one-way rule. But Town Manager Kenneth Mahony proposed the "relatively simple" solution of starting the one-way restriction at the top of the hill, so that residents at the bottom could still drive down to Shawsheen Road.

Neighbors from the street said that solution was fine with them: Greg Ricardo of Cuba Street noted that most non-resident traffic heads downhill, which will be prohibited under the one-way restriction.

However, the manager pointed out that town snow plows will still be allowed to head downhill during storms, because they would have trouble working uphill from Shawsheen Road.
